

Thousands Of Japanese Smuggled Into U. S.

TACOMA, Wash., August 3.—Definite location of the "underground system" on the Pacific coast by which thousands of Japanese are smuggled into the United States yearly, was announced today by Congressman Albert Johnson, chairman of the house sub-committee on immigration and naturalization, who reassembled here today to investigate Japanese activities in the Northwest.

"Until we come to the Northwest we had only an indefinite idea of the operations by which Japanese are being brought surreptitiously into the United States," said Chairman Johnson. "Now we have the key, so to speak."

"We have found that the Japanese underground system begins at Yokohama, from thence it leads to Honolulu and extends across the Pacific to Guaymas on the Gulf of California.

"Here either by water or across the border, the Japanese invaders are smuggled into the United States. A perfect system of escorts has been established. In Honolulu and at Guaymas posts have been established which take care of the details of the smuggling. Mexican guards are known to have been bribed with $10 at the United States-Mexican border. The same careful system of escort has been established both at Yokohama and Honolulu.

"Once the Japanese is smuggled into California he is taken in tow by some member of the Japanese association, branches of which are in Oregon and Washington. He is taken to the bank and his credit established by a substantial deposit.

"Then he goes out into the vineyards or into the agricultural districts and hides for five years. At the expiration of this time he can come out at his own will."

"The Japanese associations in the various cities make no record for government observation of any of these unlawful entries into the country," Congressman Johnson continued.

We have not been able to find one secretary of the Japanese association who can furnish us with any information as to how various members of his association come into the United States. As a matter of fact we are positive that these associations, in Washington, Oregon and California, are aiding in the surreptitious system of Japanese entry into the United States."

AMERICANS WARNED TO LEAVE WARSAW; POLISH SITUATION APPROACHES CRISIS

Polish Army Falling Back; Warsaw Seems Doomed To Capture

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Advisers today indicate that the situation in Poland, from the Polish-Alleed standpoint, is approaching a crisis.

The Polish delegation which went to Barminevitch to negotiate an armistice, not only failed to obtain terms from the Russians, but was sent back to Warsaw by the Soviet authorities, who demand that the emissaries obtain a mandate to take up peace negotiations. This will delay even the beginning of the armistice negotiations until tomorrow at the earliest.

Meanwhile the resistance of the Polish army, which apparently had been stiffening, has again relaxed under the tremendous pressure of the Bolshevik armies. Warsaw, from which the Russians now are only 60 miles distant, seems critically menaced, if not doomed to capture. Americans remaining there have received official intimation that they stay at their own risk.

Coincident with the serious military developments comes an announcement from Moscow that a Soviet government has been set up in the portions of Poland which the Bolsheviks have overrun.

PARIS, August 3.—The latest advice received by the French foreign office confirms the reports that the Russians have captured the defenses of Lodz-Bialystok, but state that the city itself, which is more than three miles distant, has not yet been taken. The defensive work were completed Monday.

The first Polish army defending Warsaw is retreating, notably between the Bug and Narw rivers, the advisers show. The fourth Polish army defending the Brest-Litovsk district, also is retreating. J. J. Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States who headed the French mission to Warsaw, still remains in the Polish capital.

WARSAW, August 3.—(By the Associated Press).—News of the progress of armistice negotiations between Polish and Russian Bolshevik representatives, was awaited impatiently by Warsaw today, but at six o'clock this morning officials said no reports had been received. In the meantime, reports from the front were not as encouraging as they had been for several days, and many foreigners continued to prepare to leave the city in the event of its imminent capture by the Soviet armies.

Word was passed around among Americans here, upon advice from Washington, that those desiring to remain in Warsaw, should it appear that the Bolsheviks would take the capital, would do so at their own risk. It was said the American authorities would request their passports, which will be returned afterward if individuals requested them. It was said the indications were that few, if any, Americans would remain, although some naturalized citizens might desire to stay in Warsaw.

MANY AMERICANS LEAVING WARSAW

Applications for passport visas by persons wishing to leave Warsaw, has been more than doubled in number at the American consulate since the beginning of the Soviet offensive, which now is hammering at the gates of Poland.

Today it was stated that upward of 3,000 visas are passed upon each week. Most of the applicants are women and children, who have friends in America. Many are refugees from districts which a few weeks ago were west of the Polish line, but which are now held by the Soviet armies.

Goods jammed the streets near the consulate on Sunday, and extra police were stationed to maintain order and to direct traffic.

SALE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES PROHIBITED

As a war measure, the military authorities have prohibited the sale of alcoholic beverages, with the exception of beer in the Warsaw district. Music has been prohibited and many musicians, actors and artists have fled to the front. Meanwhile at various distances to the north, northeast and east of the Victoria in a great semicircle the work of building trenches and digging barbed wire defenses is being carried on with great haste.

It is estimated that already about 120 American women and children have fled from Warsaw, most of them proceeding to Danzig. Many women welfare workers, however, are still here.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A provisional peace between Russia and Poland is said to have been formed in the parts of Poland that have been occupied by the Soviet troops, according to a wireless message received here from Moscow today.

Anton Marchlewsky is chairman of the newly formed body, adds the dispatch.

The new Soviet has issued a manifesto to the owners of Poland, exhorting them to rise against Poland's bourgeoisie, land owning government.

The manifesto declares that a stable

Glaring Examples Of Loose Play In Both Political Camps

(By David Lawrence (Copyright by Times Pub. Co.))

COLUMBIUS, OHIO, August 2.—Teamwork is hardly to be expected at this early stage of the national campaign—teamwork between the candidates and their respective managers—but nevertheless there are some glaring examples already of loose play in both the Republican and Democratic camps.

On the same day, for instance, that candidate Harding authorized a statement calling the Democrats to task for being willing to accept contributions of more than $1,000 and having at some forcible acts of wealth, the treasurer of the Republican national committee, Fred W. Eklund of Chicago, publicly expressed the fear that the plans of the Republicans may have to be changed before the campaign is over and contributions in excess of $1,000 be accepted.

Turn, then, to the Democratic camp. A few weeks ago, candidate Cox turned to the White House and talked things over and statements were issued by both saying a perfect understanding had been reached. A few days later Homer S. Cummings, secretary of the Democratic national committee, visits Washington and the president spends an hour with him. Two days later comes George White, the new chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who is hounded by the reporters and privately lets loose a few sentences to the effect that there is no "broad agreement" between President Wilson and candidate Cox on campaign issues and (Continued on Page Eight)

PROHIBITION AND LEAGUE ISSUES IN PRIMARY

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 3.—Missouri voters today are selecting candidates for national and state offices with prohibition as the outstanding issue. The league of nations controversy also is a principal issue in the Democratic contest for the United States senatorial nomination.

Disputes incident to the presidential campaign fund expenditures are expected to play a part in the voting. The association of Missouri Republicans, organized as the result of disclosures prepared a statement endorsing all candidates not aligned with National Committeeman Jacob L. Barker and State Chairman W. L. Cole, whose names were mentioned in connection with London and Harding funds, respectively.

Former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest, one of the five candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination, made the race on a "wet" and anti-league platform, while Charles M. Tracy, a St. Louis lawyer, declared himself in favor of prohibition and the league part as written at Versailles.

Breakthrough Long, former assistant secretary of state, and the Rev. Arthur N. Lindner, campaigned on prohibition and enforcement platforms. George H. Sprague, owner of the Sedalia Democrat, declared for the covenant and a modification of the Volstead law.

Wet and Dry Struggle

In the Republican senatorial race, Dwight S. Davis, formerly a colonel in the Third-Fifth division, announced his opposition to prohibition while his opponent, Senator Solon P. Spencer, stressed his vote for the Volstead law over President Wilson's veto. James T. Minnis, a lawyer, announced he favors law enforcement. Prohibition also has been injected into the Democratic gubernatorial contest. Representative Frank M. Arkhison, a lawyer, is an admitted "dry." Charles H. Mayer took no pronounced stand on the question.

On the Republican side, Arthur M. Hyde is an avowed "dry" while his opponent, E. E. McInnes, owner of the Springfield Republican, like Mayer, has never committed himself.

The only Democratic contest was for the gubernatorial nomination, which was sought by Jonathan Davis of Topeka, W. S. Hyatt of Parsons, O. O. Polle of Wichita, and O. T. Wood of Liberal.

Socialist candidates for congress were being nominated in six of the eight congressional districts in the state.

$200 Funeral For Canary Bird

NEWARK, N. J., August 3.—The scriptural assurance that sparrows shall not fall unnoticed, was given tangible application to a pet canary bird today. Jimmie, the little songster, choked to death yesterday on a watermelon seed, and so grief-stricken was his owner, Emilio Russemano, a sixty-five-year-old roofer, that friends contributed $200 for a funeral, including a hearse, five mourners' coaches and a fifteen piece band.

"He sang, ah so sweet, like 'Caruso,'" sobbed the roofer, as the little plush-lined casket, 6 by 12 inches, was lowered into the grave. He plans to erect a monument later.

Wheat Comes Right Back With Jump

Special efforts will be made to record the primary vote as early as possible. Secretary Smith said that the entire nation will be looking to Ohio at the November election, and that he wishes the state's election machinery put in as good shape as possible.

According to reports received here, several county boards had planned to remain closed on election night and planned to count a few votes and then quit.

GIVES REASONS FOR VOTING FOR THE SCHOOL LEVY

A statement has been prepared by County School Superintendent P. O. McCowen as to the financial condition and needs of Scioto county school district where the voters will be asked to vote the three mill levy at the primary next Tuesday. Following is the prepared statement:

1.—Total amount of money needed for all purposes for the schools of Scioto county school district, 1920-21, $18,012.90.

2.—Total amount of money from the 3 mill levy, by action of the board of education, that can be raised in Scioto county school district is $10,157.52.

3.—The school district is short the difference, $7,855.38.

4.—The district may receive from:

(a)—The state 1.5 mill fund (14 of each teacher's salary), $7,500.00; (b)—The county 1 mill fund (14 of each teacher's salary), $7,500.00; (c)—The district may receive from state 1.5 mill fund and county, total, $15,000.00; 1 mill levy on basis of aggregate attendance, small sum; (d)—The levied school fund in February, $21,336.23.

5.—The district is still short $21,336.23.

6.—The law says that in such cases, should the people vote down the additional 3 mill levy, after which the state will furnish the balance of the funds for school purposes.

7.—The additional 3 mill levy when voted will produce $10,157.52.

8.—State aid from the reserve fund will furnish the balance of the required amount of money which is about $21,336.23 minus $10,157.52.

which equals approximately $11,200.71.

8.—Should the people vote down the 3 mill levy the district will lose the state aid, and the board of education may be obliged to bond the district for sufficient money to run the schools, and the taxpayers will have to pay the bill with interest on same. In other words, it is a refusal to accept the state's generous offer.

Your attention is being called to facts pertaining to the schools which is not a matter of choice for they are in the laws of the state, and all laws will be enforced.

I believe that all the people of your district want good schools, and will therefore do all they can to make such schools possible, and they will be impossible without the money. Of course, you will vote on August 10 for the 3 mill levy. It is for the sake of the boys and girls, the future citizens of this county.

We hereby certify that the above statements and figures are approximately correct:

Footpads At Lucasville

While walking along the main street of Lucasville on his way home about seven o'clock Monday night, Sam McMillen, 29, farmer, was knocked down and beaten by highwaymen and then robbed of his valuables, consisting principally of a little more than $100 in money.

McMillen was set upon by the footpads in the darkness as he passed a tree and the robbers felt their victim with a well directed blow which knocked him completely out. When McMillen regained consciousness some time later the robbers had disappeared and he had lost his money. An examination disclosed that he suffered a dislocated shoulder when he was violently knocked to the ground. As for his injury McMillen was none the worse off Tuesday from his thrilling experience. Sheriff Ricker spent most of Tuesday at Lucasville investigating the robbery but was unable to obtain a clue which might lead to the arrest of the guilty ones.

TURKS FLEE TO MOUNTAIN CHASED BY THE GREEKS

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 3.—The Nationalist Turkish forces are fleeing into the mountains in Anatolia, according to advices received today by the state department from the American Legation at Athens. This information is based on a communique issued from the Greek headquarters in the Asia Minor fighting zone where the Greek forces are pushing the campaign against the Turks.

The communique stated that Greek advanced lines were pressing the enemy in Anatolia and that the largely depleted forces of the Nationalist Turks under command of Mustafa Kemal were escaping towards the mountains. In their flight, the communique said, the Nationalists are avoiding approach to the villages where Mussulman populations are reported waiting to attack them and "kill them without mercy."

The Greeks pursued the Turks, according to the communique, made a slow retreat and were routed.

He declares that if the culvert is made smaller he will suffer continued damage.

A temporary injunction was granted tying up the work until the case can be heard on its merits. The plaintiff sued through Attorney F. W. Moulton.

AUTOS IN CRASH

When automobiles driven by S. S. Larrison, 7947 Grove street, New Boston, and a Miss Vaughn, of Center street, collided at Second and Court streets Monday afternoon, both machines were considerably damaged, although Larrison's car lost the decision, as it was smashed up the most and put entirely out of commission. A dispute arose following the collision as to which driver caused the accident and it resulted in the police being called to settle the controversy, but no amicable settlement could be reached, and the matter may reach individual court for adjustment.

MUST PAY PENALTY

HUNTINGTON, Aug. 3.—Persons delinquent in payment of special privilege license will be required to pay a penalty of ten per cent monthly, according to the terms of an amendment to the license law passed by city commissioners Monday. The amendment reads as follows:

"If any person shall neglect any business or occupation or exercise any right or privilege without the license required by law therefor, he shall, in addition to paying the tax, be required to pay a penalty of ten per cent of the annual tax for each month, or fractional part thereof, for such time as he was in default. Such penalty shall be assessed, license tax, and shall be assessed and collected in the manner prescribed in this chapter as to other license taxes."

Cool Wave Continues

The abnormally cool weather which continues to make Schoto valley residents laugh at plans for spending the "hot summer months" in the mountains, took another drop Tuesday morning, when the temperature fell to 49 degrees. Soon after the sun came up it had climbed to 59 and was still going up. Monday morning the minimum was 48.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN DIES

BALTIMORE—John Francis Key, 62, confederate veteran and grand nephew of Francis Scott Key, writer of "Star Spangled Banner", died at Confederate Soldiers' Home, Pikeville.

HELD ON GUN TOTING CHARGE

Forest Hutchins, aged 22 years, claiming to be an employee of the carnival company, which arrived in the city Monday night, came to grief shortly after he struck town, as he was taken into custody by the police and locked up at the city jail on a formal charge of gun toting.

Hutchins was in the gangway of Tom Brown's pool room when a shot rang out, the bullet from his pistol whizzing through a window and passing uncomfortably close to George Spaulding, negro, it is said.

Attracted by the shot, Officer Flowers arrested Hutchins, who claimed that the weapon was negligently discharged as he was thinking with it.

Missing Youth Is Caught Near Vanceburg

Clarence Robinson, aged 15 years, who escaped from local officers after a merry chase through cornfields on the West Side, Sunday, was apprehended near Vanceburg Monday night by Constables Roy Boland and Cary Holsinger of Nile township, and brought to the local county jail.

The youth and his brother, Elmer, aged 13, who was captured, are accused of breaking into the home of Will Turner, West Side farmer, while the family was attending church services and stealing several articles of value, including a revolver, which the older lad had in his possession when he was taken into custody. The lads, who claim their home is in Tennessee, are held for the juvenile authorities.

Coal Shortage May Force Waverly To Be "Lightless"

WAVERLY, Aug. 3.—Waverly is facing the possibility of being forced to do without electric lights, due to the light plant being unable to get an adequate supply of coal. Only enough coal remains for a few more days. Light officials state that every effort is being made to obtain a supply but the outlook is very gloomy at the present time. Coal that used to cost 80c per ton is costing $5.50 per ton and the freight rates have more than doubled with another raise anticipated. It wouldn't surprise us to see a "for light" sign on our local power plant most any day.

Sheriff Finds Still

JACKSON, O., August 3.—While driving with his deputy, L. L. Cherrington, down in Hamilton township, near the Stele county line yesterday, Sheriff William G. Davis decided to take a walk through a suspicious-looking hollow.

While walking along the little stream which flows through the hollow, his foot slipped on the wet bank and hit the water with a splash. Voices of three or four men were heard talking in an excited tone nearby, and then came the sounds of their flight.

The sheriff let a couple of shots fly after them, and then investigated the surroundings. Not far away, he found a still, cleverly concealed with rocks, which were piled up level with the top. The still was warm, indicating that the men had been busy at their unlawful work, when the sheriff happened to run up against them. Not far away were several barrels, also cleverly concealed in the ground.

About 150 pounds of mash was dumped out into the creek by the officers. The outfit which is now safe in the county jail, consists of a tank affair about three feet high, and resting on a couple of iron plates. A long forked stick was used to stir the mash. The law-breakers have not been caught.

Held To Grand Jury

Leading guilty to charges of manufacturing illicit stills below the city, were sent to the United States grand jury under the prohibition laws, William Justice and Fred Ferguson, arrested Sunday by Sheriff Hickey and Deputy Harry Dunham in a raid on a shanty, and were released from custody, and later moved along the Ohio river service. Ferguson is held in default of bail.

Prohibition Pays, New Boston Mayor Says; Submits Figures To Prove Contention

Does prohibition pay? Mayor J. S. Davis, of New Boston, says that it does and quotes figures to show that it does pay in one way that he knows of especially.

During the wet years when he was mayor of the village, the total fines per month were usually around the $100 or $200 mark. This last month his report showed some decidedly different figures. His report for the month was $1240.94, and of this amount $1147.19 was collected in fines.

The total for this one month was unusually large, as eight foreigners, arrested for violating the prohibition laws, were given stiff fines, most of them $200 each.

"With such reports as these coming in we will soon have more money to pave the few remaining streets, and then maybe the alley," said Mayor Davis Monday in commenting on the collections and how they have increased during the last few months.

HEALTH BOARD TAKES STEPS TO ELIMINATE CESS POOLS

Declaring there are 1500 open cess pools in the city now on sanitary sewer lines, a committee from the Chamber of Commerce urged the Board of Health, at its regular meeting Monday afternoon, to take steps to enforce the ordinance in regard to sewer tags in an effort to better local health conditions, described as bad throughout many sections of the city, and cut down the heavy infant mortality rate, in which respect Portsmouth ranks low as compared with many cities of the same class in Ohio, it was claimed.

The committee called attention to the result of the recent sanitary survey made and exhibited a number of interesting charts and maps showing the districts in the city where diseases are thickest are places where there are no sanitary sewers at all, or where tags have not been taken out and connections made.

Board Approves

After considerable discussion the board gave its hearty approval to the plan and took the initial step to wage a vigorous campaign to compel all property owners on sewer lines to make tags by voting to ask council for additional funds at once to meet the added expense. It was suggested that the duties of the plumbing inspector and sanitary policeman be combined, and this will probably be done in the event council appropriates funds to increase the salary sufficiently to make it possible for the officer to maintain his own automobile.

The proposition of food inspection was also discussed at some length, but was passed over until some future time, and in the meantime Health Commissioner O. D. Tatje was directed to enlighten food dealers through the press in regard to food inspection and the basis of rating for rate cards.

The schedule, amounting to $570.54, was allowed and the board adjourned after Clerk Bernall read the usual monthly reports.

These contagious diseases were reported to Health Commissioner Tatje for the past month: Smallpox, 1; diphtheria, 1; scarlet fever, 4; measles, 2; whooping-cough, 4; typhoid, 3; pulmonary tuberculosis, 1.

Plumbing Inspector William West, plan and took the initial step to wage a vigorous campaign to compel all property owners on sewer lines to make tags by voting to ask council for additional funds at once to meet the added expense. It was suggested that the duties of the plumbing inspector and sanitary policeman be combined, and this will probably be done in the event council appropriates funds to increase the salary sufficiently to make it possible for the officer to maintain his own automobile.

RAID RESULTS IN FINE

John Fates, foreigner, arrested by Monday afternoon on a charge of having New Boston officers, Sunday morning, 1224 High in his possession in violation of the officers had made a raid on a place in the rear of Fates Bros. pool. Sixty gallons of corn mash and a half-pint of rum were taken from the place. Fates was fined $200 by Mayor Davis, the officers in the raid.

BACK FEEL LAME, SORE AND ACHY?

Get back your health and keep it! Take things easier for awhile and begin treating the weakened kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have brought new strength to thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These are Portsmouth Cases:

WEST EIGHTH STREET

Mrs. E. S. Bickel, 614 W. Eighth street, says: "My kidneys were troubling me and I had dull pains in the small of my back. My feet and limbs swelled quite badly and I had sharp pains through my hips and down into my feet. I was drowsy some days and felt tired and sick most of the time. I was told about Doan's Kidney Pills and got some of the Best Cross Pharmacy, and was pleased with the relief they gave me. One box regulated my kidneys and helped me a great deal and the second box cured me entirely. My kidneys were in good shape and have been ever since. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve a lot of credit."

SEVENTH STREET

O. W. Metzger, painter, 223 Seventh St., says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble in my case was backache. I was chopping wood one day when a stitch took me in the small of my back and I had to be helped into the house. The kidney symptoms were severe, burning in passage and contained sediment like brick dust. I treated with six physicians and used many medicines with no results. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills helped me a great deal and by the time I had finished three boxes I was cured. That cure has lasted for over five years."

EIGHTEENTH STREET

Lewis Penner, carpenter, 1210 Eighteenth St., says: "A cold generally brings on my kidney troubles. Some time ago I was in pretty bad shape from kidney ailments. When I stooped over to pick up a hammer, a sharp pain shot up from the small of my back and at times I could hardly straighten. The kidney secretions were scanty and too frequent in passage. I had dizzy spells so bad I would stagger around. Finally a friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box at Flood's Drug Store and began using them. I felt relief from the start and two boxes fixed me up in fine shape."

GALLIA STREET

Mrs. P. J. Myers, 1802 Gallia St., says: "My lam-tago and other kidney trouble was brought on by catching cold a few years ago. When I was doing my housework and would bend over to pick up something, a sharp pain would shoot through my back like toothache. For two weeks I suffered terribly and was unable to do any work. I was restless and in such pain I couldn't sleep much. A friend advised me to get Doan's Kidney Pills and try them. I did. Two boxes regulated my kidneys and cured me of all that trouble. I have been free from kidney disorder since."

JOHN STREET

Mrs. S. A. Dixon, 510 John St., says: "Off and on for a year or so my kidneys were out of order. My back pained a great deal. There was a steady, nagging ache or such sharp pains I couldn't bend over or straighten up. Some days it was all I could do to keep on my feet. I could tell in different ways my kidneys weren't doing their work right. I got up mornings feeling lame and tired, because I couldn't get much rest at night. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Hazen's Drug Store, and they helped me so much I kept on taking them. At the end of two weeks my kidneys were acting all right and my back was strong and free from pain."

No package of Doan's Kidney Pills is genuine unless it bears the maple-leaf trade-mark and the signature—Jas. Doan.

MISS DOLLY WISE

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Am coming to you for advice. Where must I go or write to secure a job as revenue officer? What kind of an education is needed and also how old must I be?

THANK YOU

Write to the Department of Revenue at Washington, D. C., and they will give you full particulars about such a position.

Dear Miss Wise—I am seeking information. I know of no other who could answer the question following: I am in love with a girl of sixteen and love her very much, and she loves me. I think we ought to get united but can't get her parents' consent. Now, Dolly, can you tell me if anything could be done with me if we should get married in this town as I am in no condition to leave the state? Also, what is the proper way to propose to her? When should I give her the ring? Do you think I should wait until she is of age or marry and have it over with? Now, Dolly, I am relying on you for an answer to this as soon as possible.

A LOVING KID

You cannot marry a girl until she is of age—16 years old—without her parents' consent. They can have the wedding declared null and void if you do such a thing anyway. Remember you are married a mighty long time once the knot is tied. Furthermore, a sixteen-year-old girl doesn't know her own mind.

Dear Miss Wise—Last April I had the measles, besides a high fever. For the last three weeks my hair has been falling out until I have just enough to cover the scalp. What would you advise me to do to keep it from coming out entirely?

WELLSTON SWEETIE

There is nothing quite like a massage cure to restore hair. Ask your druggist to recommend one for your needs. Massage cure has been applied to hundreds of falling hair for many years. Lately humans have tried it on their scalps with most beneficial results. Follow the directions on the package.

Ohio—I am not permitted to answer your question because such a procedure is not lawful. "B. B. K. and L." is said to mean "B. B. Kisses and Love" while "B. B. D. C. Y. K." means "B. B. Darling, Consider Yourself Kissed." I never heard of the other one.

Dear Miss Wise—May I have a little space in your column? I am a young girl employed in one of the offices of this city and am anxious to find a desirable girl between the ages of 18 and 24 to share my room with me. You will do me a favor by giving my phone number to those interested.

CHARLOTTE

Dearest Dolly—Some time ago I received a long year letter from a girl proposing to me. Dolly, if I knew the writer's name I would answer. What do you think about it, anyway? I guess it was all done for fun, don't you?

JIMMIE

Sure I don't think she meant it.

It isn't natural for a girl to exhibit such forwardness and lack of modesty. Tell her she can't kid gloves.

Glaring Example Of Loose Play

That considerable "elasticity" is possible in interpreting the obligations of the Cox-Wilson conference.

Slap For Mr. White

Then George White doesn't get an invitation to the White House which instead of ignoring the invitation of Mr. White's remarks takes him to task and keeps him outside the precincts of the presidential mansion.

The truth of the matter is that Mr. White wasn't trying to give an impression of divergence between the views of the president and those of Governor Cox but to emphasize that the Democratic nominee is the leader of the party and is doing his own thinking and that such of his views as may square with the president's are the result of coincidence and not political coercion. The White House is a good deal more touchy about these things than is necessary in a political campaign as will be clearly demonstrated when the speech of acceptance written by Governor Cox is made public.

The Wise Thing

The wise thing from the view point of party harmony and strategy would have been to warmly welcome George White just the same and thus keep political foes from taking advantage as they did of apparent friction.

Score Front Porch Campaign

Mismanagement is commonly said to have cost Hughes the presidency in 1916. The tactics of the Republican managers are already earning a verdict. The determination to keep a candidate out of the front porch has been severely criticized. The Repubcan national committee of long experience in politics told the writer recently that he didn't believe Harding could win if he stayed on the front porch. The movement to get the candidate out of the stump has resulted in a temporary compromise. Chairman Hays has decided to let Senator Harding talk in the big cities—New York, Chicago, Boston. There is serious talk of adding Denver and San Francisco to the list. Unquestionably there would have been a change of plans sooner and Mr. Harding would have been permitted by his campaign committee to make an extended tour event for four of the towns of the Democrats, who it was thought, might gladly claim they had driven Harding from the front porch.

Want Plan Changed

But the more thoughtful leaders who know that campaigns are not won by taunts would welcome even now a frank reversal of plan so that the Republican candidate, who is a splendid mixer and makes a fine impression when he mingles with the crowd, might see more of the electorate.

The front porch campaign was originally changed because it was supposed to keep the candidate from saying indiscreet things on the stump but it is a serious question whether it is doing more damage, will not be done by front porch publicity. This is always the work of a group of press agents who see in it that a constant flow of news proceeds from the political chattering and who have already persuaded Senator Harding to indulge in bookish campaign. Republican leaders outside of Marion are wondering that isn't less dignified after all than a speaking trip would be in which there would be no question about the authenticity or origin of the statements made by the candidate from day to day.

May Revise G. O. P. Plans

It would not be surprising if in another week or two the entire Republican campaign plan in this respect were revised. For the present, the speech of Governor Cox is awaited. Senator Harding will find therein the answers to all the questions he has been asked. The strategy from the Harding viewpoint would have been to ignore the Democratic nominee altogether while the latter worked on his speech of acceptance. Advantage could have been taken of the three weeks' interval in which the Republican nominee a three weeks' start with the public. And first impressions count a good deal with the voters.

DAVID LAWRENCE.

At the recent Republican convention at Saratoga, N. Y., Judge Nathan L. Miller of Syracuse was designated as the Republican candidate for governor of New York, subject to approval in September primaries. ### MILLIONS TO PAY NOTE HELD BY SPECULATORS

BOSTON, August 3.—The line of anxious note holders in the "50 percent in 90 days" investment proposition of Charles Ponzi, who claims to have made millions by foreign exchange operations, began to form outside the office of his Securities Exchange Company. Long before daylight today they were clamoring for the return of their money.

The first claimant appeared at the rear entrance in El Alby, formerly the "old Bull and Lion" bar at 22 a. m. He held a note for $10,000 which, under the terms of Ponzi's agreement, was to have returned a profit of $500. He held for maturity. The investor said he had decided to pass up the profit and take his principal back.

This early comer had no chance to get his money, for soon after he had taken his station other note holders began to arrive. A score were on hand by five o'clock and as the usual opening hour of 9 o'clock approached, the line grew rapidly giving every indication of the largest crowd of creditors since Ponzi began paying back money more than a week ago.

Many of those in line were from other New England cities, where the Securities Exchange Company has maintained branch offices. Most of the early arrivals said they were holders of unsecured notes.

Ponzi, in a statement again asserted that his business was solvent and that he was prepared to meet all demands. He estimated that up to ten million he had paid out about $4,000,000 since the beginning. He asserted that he would "pay millions left" after paying all obligations and that he was "still considering the offer of a New York bank, which he did not mean to buy his business."

To Meet Old Friends
Dr. F. M. Williams left Monday for Montrose and Cambridge Springs, Pa., on a vacation of two weeks. While there he will meet old friends with whom he was engaged in Red Cross work.

COLEMBUS, O., Aug. Representatives of farming interests in Ohio are planning a series of eight district meetings throughout the state in the interest of live stock production. These meetings, it is said, may culminate in the federation of all live in a national organization. Tentative dates selected are: Columbus, August 16; Zanesville, August 17; Lima, August 18; Chubbuck, August 19; Portsmouth, August 20; Canton, August 23; Norwalk, August 24; and Cleveland, August 25.

The Portsmouth Nash Company through a deal closed Tuesday took over the lease the Seoto Valley Motor Company held on the corner room in the Turley building.

CHILLICOTHE, O., August 3.—Black Davis, 30, colored, who claims Chicago as his home, was shot through the right leg yesterday afternoon, by Sheriff Alfred Immell, in a four-cornered revolver battle with the sheriff, Detective Frank Hummelback, and Special Officer William Dixon, one mile west of Richmond.

Hummelback received a telephone call about 1 o'clock to come to the village to arrest a negro who was brandishing a big gun, terrorizing the village, and telling everybody what he intended doing to them.

In order to prevent the negro escaping by railroad, Dixon was sent by the Stony Creek road. Hummelback and Immell, in the sheriff's machine, took the pike. When the latter reached the railroad overhead bridge just this side of Richmond, they were told of the negro's whereabouts. While maneuvering around, the officers met Dixon, and shortly after saw the man behind the residence of Herbert Caldwell. Dixon took chase while the other two officers went into Richmond on us to overtake the negro. Dixon found that Davis had left the vicinity of Caldwell's house and had evidently headed for the home of a man named Lett.

Shortly after, Dixon came within shooting distance of the negro and shots were exchanged. Davis fired three times at Dixon. Meanwhile, Hummelback and Immell had come up from the east and saw Davis coming toward them from the woods. When the negro reached a spot about 50 feet distant, Hummelback ordered him to throw up his hands. Instead of complying with the order, Davis shot at Hummelback and dropped to the ground. He then crawled from a straw stack to a large tree nearby.

Hummelback crawled to the negro's left, while Immell circled around to the right. Hummelback once called out, "Get him, sheriff," and most of Davis' fire was then turned on the sheriff. However, Dixon soon appeared from the woods and the four-cornered battle was on. Immell had taken protection in a gully, but one bullet narrowly missed him. He dropped and crawled down along the gully, uttering some minutes later at in spot further down. The negro evidently believed he had "got" Immell for when the sheriff took another look Davis had turned away from him, and was firing at Dixon and Hummelback. Immell took careful aim, drew "head" on Davis, and fired with a caliber army revolver. The bullet caught the negro in the calf of the right leg. His surrender was immediate.

JAPS SNEAK INTO U. S. THRU UNDERGROUND SYSTEM

FACOMA, Wash., Aug. 3.—Definite location of the "underground system" on the Pacific coast by which thousands of Japanese are smuggled into the United States yearly, was announced here today by Congressman Albert Johnson, chairman of the house subcommittee on immigration and naturalization which re-assembled here today to investigate Japanese activities in the Northwest.

"Until we came to the Northwest we had only an indefinite idea of the operations by which Japanese are being brought surreptitiously into the United States," said Chairman Johnson. "Now we have the key; so to speak."

"We have found that the Japanese underground system begins at Yokohama, from thence it leads to Honolulu and extends across the Pacific to Guyana on the Gulf of California."

"Here either by water or across the border, the Japanese invaders are smuggled into the United States. A perfect system of escorts has been established. In Honolulu and at Guyana posts have been established which take care of the details of the smuggling. Mexican guards are known to have been bribed with $10 at the United States-Mexican border. The same careful system of escort has been established both at Yokohama and Honolulu."

"Once the Japanese is smuggled into California he is taken in four by some member of the Japanese association, branches of which are in Oregon and Washington. He is taken to the bank and his credit established by a substantial deposit."

"Then he goes out into the vineyards or into the agricultural districts and hides for five years. At the expiration of this time he can come out of seclusion."

"The Japanese associations in the various cities make no record for government observation of any of these unlawful entries into the country," Congressman Johnson continued.

"We have not been able to find one secretary of the Japanese association who can furnish us with any information as to how various members of his association came into the United States. As a matter of fact we are positive that these associations, in Washington, Oregon and California, are aiding in the surreptitious system of Japanese entry into the United States."

Provisional Soviet Formed In Poland

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A provisional Soviet has been formed in the parts of Poland that have been occupied by Soviet troops, according to a wireless message received here from Moscow today.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The Polish and Bolshevik emissaries met today at Kobryn, on the railroad east of Brest-Litovsk, and the negotiations began Saturday morning. Karl Radok, representing the Bolsheviks, says in a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin.

It is stated that the Bolsheviks began by demanding the surrender of Brest-Litovsk, which already was in their hands.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—A message received through diplomatic channels states that the Polish casualties, when published, will astonish the world. The proportion of killed and wounded to the total number involved exceeds that of the bloodiest battles of the World War, which "explains the reluctance of the Poles to publish their casualties," it was ascertained.

WARSAW, Aug. 3.—(By The Associated Press).—News of the progress of armistice negotiations between Polish and Russian Bolshevik representatives, was awaited impatiently by Warsaw today, but at six o'clock this evening officials said no reports had been received. In the meantime, reports from the front were not as encouraging as they had been for several days, and many foreigners continued to prepare to leave the city in the event of its imminent capture by the Soviet armies.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN SUED FOR DIVORCE

Blow On Jaw Saves Him

FREMONT, Neb., Aug. 3.—Arthur Thomas, an employee of the City Electric Light plant here, was saved from death today by a blow on the jaw. He had taken hold of a plug which had become charged by a short circuit and could not free himself. Clyde Newton, a fellow worker, saw his predicament and swung his right fist to the point of Thomas' jaw, knocking him several feet away. Thomas' jaw was slightly fractured but he says he is satisfied.

MILLIONAIRE AND 19 FELLOW COMMUNISTS CONVICTED AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—William Broderick and nineteen other members of the Communist Labor Party were convicted by a jury in criminal court last night of violating the Illinois election law.

Lloyd, who is rated as a millionaire, and who for years has been a leader among Chicago socialists, was given the maximum punishment—five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. Arthur Proctor, proprietor of a Chicago book store where radical literature was sold, was also given the maximum penalty.

Jury Out Nine Hours

Seven other defendants were given penitentiary sentences and fines ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 and eleven others were given jail sentences of one year.

The verdict was read after the jury had been out nine hours. The defense filed motion for a new trial and Judge Hebel announced it would be heard September 20. He ordered the defendants released on bonds of the same amount they were held under while the trial was in progress.

The trial followed a probe of more than six months which was conducted by private detectives employed by Chicago business men. Indictments had been issued for 39 members of the Communist Labor party, some of the men have never been found. Among those was John Reed, radical writer.

Three women indicted at the same time as Lloyd and his associates are awaiting a separate trial. They are Margaret Freery, Akron, Ohio; Helen Spill, Chicago; and Clara Rofsky (Tishago).

PROHIBITION AND LEAGUE ISSUES IN PRIMARY

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 3.—Missouri voters today are selecting candidates for national and state offices, with prohibition as the outstanding issue. The league of nations controversy also is a principal issue in the Democratic contest for the United States senatorial nomination.

Disclosures incident to the presidential campaign fund expenditures are expected to play a part in the voting. The association of Missouri Republicans, organized as the result of disclosures prepared a statement endorsing all candidates and aligned with National Committeeman Joseph L. Ralston and State Chairman W. L. Cole, whose names were mentioned in connection with Lowden and Harding funds, respectively.

Former Federal Judge Henry R. Priest, one of the five candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination, made the race on a "wet" and anti-league platform, while Charles M. Hay, a St. Louis lawyer, declared himself in favor of prohibition and the league pact as written at Versailles.

Brookbridge Long, former assistant secretary of state, and the Rev. Arthur N. Hoxley, campaigned on pro-league and enforcement platforms. George H. Scruton, owner of the So. Mo. Democrat, declared for the covenant and a modification of the Volstead law.

Wet and Dry Struggle

In the Republican senatorial race, Dwight S. Davis, formerly a colonel in the Thirty-fifth division, announced his opposition to prohibition while his opponent, Senator Selmon P. Spencer, stressed his vote for the Volstead law over President Wilson's veto. James J. Minnis, a lawyer, announced he favored law enforcement. Prohibition also has been injected into the Democratic gubernatorial contest. Representative Frank M. Atkinson, a lawyer, is an admitted "dry" while his opponent, E. E. McInnes, owner of the Springfield Republican, like Mayer, has never committed himself.

KANSAS HOLDING PRIMARY

KANSAS CITY, Kans., Aug. 3.—Kansas today nominated candidates for state offices, for the United States senate, for representatives in congress and for district, county and township offices, and chose ten presidential electors for each party.

Governor Henry J. Allen was opposed by George Snow of Oakland, who announced he expected the Farm-Labor vote because he himself had been a farm hand. Charles Curtis, United States senator, has as his opponent for re-nomination John A. Edwards of Encke.

The only Democratic contest was for the gubernatorial nomination which was sought by Jonathan Davis of Atkinson, W. S. Hyatt of Parsons, O. O. Potts of Wichita, and O. T. Wood of Liberal.

Socialist candidates for congress were being nominated in six of the eight congressional districts in the state.

OPENING STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Yesterday's losses were partly retrieved in a number of instances at the opening of today's stock market. United States steel, Reading, American International and Baldwin displayed temporary strength, but the entire list soon weakened when bullish traders found they could not advance prices without getting a liberal supply of stocks. Particular weakness was noted among the independent steels, especially Bethlehem and Republic. Railroads moved in a confused fashion with Northern Pacific and some of the low priced shares losing ground.

AUTOS IN CRASH

When automobiles driven by S. S. Larrison, 2667 Grace street, New Boston, and a Miss Vaughn, of Center street, collided at Second and Court streets Monday afternoon, both machines were considerably damaged, although Larrison's car lost the decision as it was smashed up the most and put entirely out of commission.

A dispute arose following the collision as to which driver caused the accident and it resulted in the police being called to settle the controversy, but no amicable settlement could be reached, and the matter may reach municipal court for adjustment.

Young Auto Accident Victims Are Improving

It was shown that the skull of Forrest Williams, 12-year-old son of Mr. A. E. Adkins of Dry Run, was fractured and the left leg of Clyde (Sam) Waller, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Waller, of Dry Run, was broken above the knee by X-rays taken by Virgil Fowler, Monday.

The boys were run down by a Chevrolet roadster, driven by Grover C. Conley, 3100 Walnut street, East Portsmouth, Sunday evening, about 9:30 o'clock, just north of the Old Town M. E. church on Dry Run.

Both young men were taken to the Hampden hospital where Dr. L. D.

Altard took Williams to the operating room, and raised the fractured bone in order that it would stop pressing against the brain. It was found that besides having his body bruised, and his face swollen and discolored beyond all recognition, that the wheel of the machine had passed over Williams' left leg. He is still at the hospital, and passed a good night considering the extent of his injuries.

Dr. Harry T. Rapp set the broken bones in the little Waller boy's leg. He was removed from the hospital Monday evening.

Conley, a well known barber at the George Davis barber shop, on Eighth street, was running without lights and did not have the horn of his car in working order.

According to the statement made to The Times Tuesday by Mr. Waller, the large party of young people, who were with the two victims at the time of the accident, say that no machine with glaring headlights preceded them up the road.

In giving his version of the unfortunate occurrence, Mr. Conley stated that he was unable to keep to his side of the road on account of a machine that had just passed him.

REVOLVER BATTLE ENDS WHEN NEGRO IS SHOT

CHILICOTHE, O., August 3.—Mack Davis, 20, colored, who claims Chicago as his home, was shot through the right leg yesterday afternoon, by Sheriff Alfred Immell, in a four-cornered revolver battle with the sheriff, Detective Frank Hammelback, and Special Officer Hiram Dixon, one mile west of Richmond.

Hammelback received a telephone call about 1 o'clock to come to the village to arrest a negro who was brandishing a big gun, terrorizing the village, and telling everybody what he intended to do to them.

In order to prevent the negro escaping by railroad, Dixon was sent by the Stone Creek road. Hammelback and Immell, in the sheriff's machine, took the trip. When the latter reached the railroad overhead bridge just this side of Richmond, they were told of a negro's whereabouts. While maneuvering around, the officers met Dixon, who shortly after saw the man behind the residence of Herbert Caldwell. Dixon took them while the other two officers went into the woods to surround the negro. Dixon found that Davis had left the vicinity of Caldwell's house and had evidently headed for the home of a man named Immell.

Shortly after, Dixon came within shooting distance of the negro and shots were exchanged. Davis fired three times at Dixon. Meanwhile, Hammelback and Immell had come up from the east and saw Davis coming toward them from the woods. When the negro reached a spot about 20 feet distant, Hammelback ordered him to throw up his hands. Instead of complying with the order, Davis shot at Hammelback and dropped to the ground. He then crawled from a straw stack to a large tree nearby.

Transparency Dressing

by Lady Duff Gordon

LADY DUFF-GORDON, the famous "Lucile" of London, and foremost creator of fashions in the world, writes each week the fashion article for this newspaper, presenting all that is newest and best in styles for well-dressed women.

Lady Duff-Gordon's Paris establishment brings her into close touch with that centre of fashion.

Lady Duff-Gordon's American establishment is at No. 19 East Fifty-fourth street, New York City.

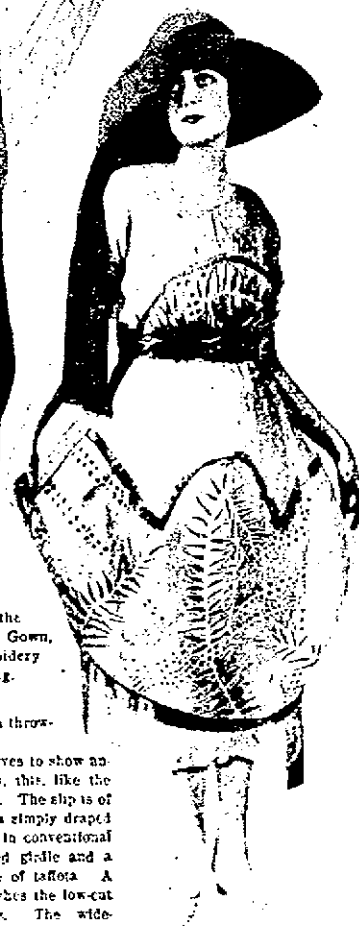

Net With a Conventional Lace Design Forms This Dress.

Transparency Gown of Net Lavishly Trimmed With Metallic Embroidery and Pleated Ruffles of Shot Taffeta Ribbon.

This Gown Shows the Quaint Beauty Into Which Taffeta Can Be Wrought

Organdie is the Material of This Gown. Cut-Out Embroidery the Trimming.

By Lady Duff-Gordon ("Lucile")

YOU have heard of transparencies. In the usual sense the word means pictures painted on a material through which the light shines. When I offer today for your inspection, and perhaps for your adaptation, a group of transparency dresses I am borrowing that term. The gowns are picture-like, you will agree. The light shines through some of the materials used in the clothes structures.

The large middle figure is the reproduction of an excellent photograph of a transparency cloak. This transparent wrap is worn over a garden party dress depicted by the small upper right-hand figure. The wrap is fashioned of that fabric at once diaphanous and useful-net. The net is closely embroidered, with metal lace applied and fastened by metal cord. It is built on the lines of grandmother's frock, with a low belt line and a flaring skirt. A wide ribbon of shot taffeta is draped about the shoulders and hangs in graceful streamers to the hem of the cloak. The shot taffeta ribbon is also used as a border of the huge, long sleeves. Narrow pleated ruffles of taffeta are grouped in undulating horizontal lines about the skirt and sleeves of the coat.

A dress of charming simplicity is the garden party one worn by the small lower right-hand figure. Organdie is employed for the gown. A wide, plain strip of the organdie in solid color is the first garment, or the cornerstone, so to speak, of the costume. The superstructure, as it may be termed, is composed of a bib and apron effect of cut-out embroidered net, bound at the edges with a wide band of muslin of a contrasting color.

The gown is simply finished at the neck with the chemise accessory of a narrow ribbon drawn about and tied at the neck. The cut-out net embroidery is used for the sleeves. A patent leather belt, wide and crushed, adds smartness to the ensemble. The hat is of a drooping shape of rough straw trimmed with a wide patent leather ribbon, the long ends of which fall below the wearer's waist at the side. Note that the gown bears out its title, for it is semi-transparent below the knees, where a lace petticoat reveals itself bewitchingly, and above the bust line.

The small upper right-hand figure displays the beauty into which yards of taffeta may be wrought. Again we see the low belt line and the generous flare of a dress of our dear and not forgotten grandmother. We see also the full, graduated ruffles arranged about the waist and skirt in undulating lines. These ruffles of shot taffeta are edged with metallic lace. Thread lace appears in the vestee around the neck line of the surplice waist and at the sleeves. A flat cluster of metallic flowers finishes the end of the diagonal line of the surplice at the waist. A design of metallic thread in varying colors follows the outline of the ruffles directly above each group on the skirt.

The hat worn with this costume is of taffeta, trimmed with handmade silk flowers and masked with a throw-over of mallow.

The left-hand figure serves to show another transparency dress, this, like the others, for a garden party. The slip is of satin. Over it is worn a simply draped net, having lines of lace in conventional patterns. A huge, draped girdle and a band about the hips are of taffeta. A ruche of pleated net finishes the low-cut V-neck and shoulders. The wide-brimmed, drooping hat is surrounded with a chaplet of field flowers.

WANTED — A Kiss Censor!

How the Four Minute and Seven Seconds' Kiss That Held Up the Aquitania and Shocked a Movie Magnate Has Led to a New Crusade Against Osculation in Public Places.

By BARBARA CRAYDON

SAILING TIME for the ocean greyhound Aquitania. Business of farewells. Kisses, hugs, handshakes. Deckhands scurrying about. Nervous folk trying to remember if they had forgotten to slip this or that into portmanteau.

"All ashore!"

Thus the deck stewards sound the last signal. One by one the great hawseers slip into the stream. The last gangplank is about to be withdrawn.

All at once, breaking through the guards, a girl runs half-way up the gangplank, meeting, at that point, a young man who had as impetuously darted from the ship when he first saw her in the act of making the 59th minute and 59th second rush. They literally leap into each other's embrace.

But for the first few moments nobody cares and few even look. For it was not an uncommon occurrence. But when the second hand had ticked off a minute and there was no sign of a relaxation of the prodigious hug, one passenger took out his watch and others began to jibe.

"Break free!" "Make your bows, the act is over!" "Hire a chop suey stall!" "What's this, the kiss Marathon?" "Aw! have a heart, somebody's peckin'!"

Measure Kiss with a Rule

Among the onlookers is William A. Brady, the producer, and his actress daughter, to whom he has just bid farewell before sailing. Mr. Brady was highly amused. But the ship's crew, as the minutes passed, become peevish. Someone even suggests a fire axe. The man with the watch continues to count the seconds.

"Ah-ah-h-h-h!" sighs the throng of spectators, in chorus, when the embrace at last disintegrates.

"Four minutes and seven seconds!" announces the timer.

The above episode spells out one of the reasons why there is an agitation afoot to have a kiss censor appointed. Not over this one incident. But over the fact that such incidents are common. They have already censored the length of a movie kiss. They actually measure the film with a rule and cut it off at the exact point they desire. In Baltimore they even have gone so far as to advocate a law forbidding a kiss longer than three feet in the pictures. This takes about a quarter of a second to show. But thirty feet of film, two seconds of flash, is generally the length allowed.

There is no such limit to the length of a kiss on the films in Europe. In fact, when a love scene is being filmed in America for both American and European consumption, the camera man keeps on turning for many seconds over the fifty-foot limit. The kiss in its entirety is reproduced in Europe, but only the revised version properly pruned down is used in American movie theatres.

Opinions may differ as to the advisability of fixing fifty feet for the proper official length of a kiss. For many persons many seconds pass very quickly in this delectable pastime. Under some circumstances a three-foot kiss may be much too long. It may be argued, however, that the movie kiss should be held down to that length because it is given in public before an audience composed of all ages. But so is the farewell kiss on the steamer dock or in the railroad station. These crowds are subject to the same influences and may be demoralized exactly the same as those in the theatres.

An attempt has already been made to control public kissing in railroad stations. In the Grand Central station in New York these prolonged kisses of welcome became so frequent that the passageways were often blocked by couples clinched in each other's arms. To avoid this congestion a space in front of the exits was roped off and no kissing is allowed inside this enclosure. Occasionally someone will break through the lines, rush past the guards and greet a friend with a kiss, breaking the censorship rules, but the kissing is at least kept under some kind of control.

The uncensored kiss is obviously open to many objections both on moral and hygienic grounds. If it is demoralizing, as the censor insists, for an audience to witness a kiss lasting for even a moment more than seven seconds, what can be said of a four-minute kiss in public? The kiss timed the other day on the gangplank of the Aquitania was more than 550 per cent. more demoralizing than the longest kiss permitted on the moving picture screen.

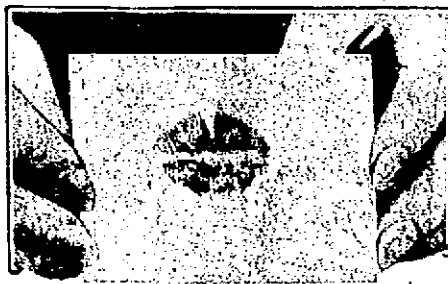

The railroad station and steamship pier are not the only public places where kisses long or short may be witnessed. The spooning or park benches have also attracted the attention of censors. These kisses may be classified as semi-public, and are less objectionable, since they are not likely to be given before so large an audience.

There is, of course, a general attempt to censor all kisses in public. If a kiss is prolonged far enough to become scandalous a policeman probably would interfere. He does so, however, only in extreme cases, and the length of the kiss is left entirely to his judgment.

How Long Should a Kiss Be?

A determined effort is being made in some quarters to reduce the official length of a movie kiss from 30 feet to three feet. The advantages of the new rule were urged at a meeting in Baltimore of the Citizens' League for Better Motion Pictures, called by Gov. Ritchie of Maryland.

The Kiss in Its Various Stages as Projected in the Movies.

What the Only Legal Kiss of the Future May Be Like if the Kiss Crusaders Are Victorious—An Imprint Kiss Made by Coating the Lips with Scented Powder and Applying Them to a Mailing Card.

One of the most eloquent of the speakers, Samuel Clark, who has served as censor in Canada, strongly recommended the "4 second limit." It was further argued that a 30-foot kiss was long enough to satisfy the movie patron, and should work no inconvenience or hardship for the moving picture folk.

The two-second length for a kiss is purely arbitrary. It is difficult to find a satisfactory unit of measure for the length of a kiss. In two seconds a man walking at the rate of four miles an hour will traverse about six feet. A fast runner will cover from 20 to 25 yards in the same period. A railroad train, an automobile or an aeroplane traveling a mile a minute covers 150 feet in seven seconds. Compared with these distances the two-second kiss may seem somewhat prolonged.

A kiss prolonged to seven seconds is objected to by many authorities on hygienic grounds. It is well known that any contagious disease is transmitted by kissing. In some cases a mere contact of the lips of a fraction of a second in length is sufficient to transfer the microbes. When a kiss is prolonged to seven seconds the danger of infection is enormously increased. It has been calculated that the human mouth may contain as many as 32,000,000 microbes. A prolonged kiss makes it possible for an amazing number of these to be transferred.

In cases of obvious danger the physician in a manner acts as censor of kissing. A patient who is likely to spread infection of any kind is warned not to kiss anyone, and those who come in contact with such a patient, the members of the family, for instance, are also cautioned. It is very difficult, however, to exercise such a censorship in public or among a large number of persons. The physician cannot label a patient dangerous if kissed, as he might put a red or yellow flag before a house in which there was a case of measles. It may be questioned if such a caution would serve to stop kissing. Unless the danger were considerable many people would take a chance when the impulse was great and the subject attractive.

The problem of the kiss censor, it will be seen, is highly complicated. It has been found very difficult to impose such censorship even in the moving picture productions. Were such a law enforced regarding public kissing there would be a loud outcry against the infringement of personal liberty. Meanwhile, there is a large and influential party who insist that a kiss censor is essential both on moral and hygienic grounds.

Sacred Dogfish of Burma

The people of Mandalay have chosen the dogfish which infests the Irrawaddy river as one of their sacred animals, for a very picturesque and romantic reason which goes back a long time in their history. In our own country fish have attracted to our rivers myriads of devotees, from the immortal Frank Walton downwards, but in their case the devotion has been not to the fish, but to the sport of catching and killing it, a fate which obviously does not befall animals which are invested with sanctity.

The legend of the Burmese sacred dogfish tells that once upon a time a king of Pagan was married to a Shan princess, who had an earring in which was set a relic of Buddha. All went well during the earlier portion of the married life of the royal couple, but at last there came a rift in the love, so to speak, for one day the king noticed that this relic was shining unnaturally, and, being a very superstitious potentate, he forthwith jumped to the conclusion that his wife must be a witch, and in consequence turned her out.

Sorrowfully, the unfortunate queen began her journey to her home in the Shan States, and on her arrival at Shweyayan she made up her mind, not without much apparent good reason, that there was no use in retaining any longer this relic of Buddha, which had brought her to such a sorrowful pass. Accordingly, much distraught, as may well be imagined, she buried it in the ground and caused the erection of a little pagoda over it, thus converting the place into a shrine.

Some years later it began to be rumored that, owing to the presence of the relic, large fish congregated at this spot in the Myingye river at certain seasons of the year. The queen's husband heard of this, and sent his minister to investigate the story. The fish, it was discovered, would come up to be fed by hand, and the minister, in view of this fact, put gold leaf on the fishes' heads. It happened once that the minister had to go to Bhamo on business soon after his visit to Shweyayan, and to his surprise, at a pagoda festival at Bhamo, he discovered in the Irrawaddy river some of the same fish with the gold leaf on their heads. On his return he mentioned this to the king, with the result that Shweyayan became a sacred place. The veneration in which it is held by the inhabitants of Burmah is apparent from the pilgrimages made to it from all parts of the country. Especially noticeable, as has been said, are the crowds which visit the place in March.

How Mrs. Oelrichs' Divorce and Perfume Shop Have Upset Fashionable Society

Exclusive Newport Unable to Agree Whether it Is the Proper Thing for a Former Charming Leader to Turn Merchant and Make Cash Customers of Her Smart Friends

Thus Annoying the Proud Family of the Husband She Has Dropped

NEWPORT, Aug. 12. SELDOM if ever has fashionable society been more amazed than it was the other day when Mrs. Charles de Loosy Oelrichs divorced her husband and went to Newport and opened on Bellevue avenue, right in the centre of the smart Summer colony, a perfume shop.

It had long been known that Mrs. Oelrichs felt the necessity of eking out her personal resources in some way. But the double news that she had dropped her husband and was to carry her quest of dollars into the fashionable Summer colony of which she has for many seasons been a prominent member was so astonishing that many Newport residents could hardly credit the story until they paid a visit to the attractive little shop and saw for themselves who was managing it.

As they quickly found out, it is quite true that Mrs. Oelrichs has actually had the courage to go into trade in Newport. There she sits behind the counter every day, personally superintending the sale of the costly perfumes, powders and other cosmetic luxuries which form her stock in trade.

If she were playing the role of "a plucky little woman thrown upon her own resources" in some Broadway melodrama she could hardly look or dress the part any better. Against the effective background furnished by the pink ceramums in the windows of the store and the gay labels of the perfume bottles on the shelves she makes a charming picture in her black crepe frock and fetching black toque. The appealing air of wisdom which even the coquettish black beauty spot on her cheek cannot belie combines with her sombre garb to give the appearance of a thoroughly worthy gentlewoman in reduced circumstances.

In fact, Mrs. Oelrichs' much discussed perfume shop forms the rock which has split Newport society as it has rarely been split before. One faction maintains that she is doing perfectly right and lauds the courage she has shown by extending the field of her business activities to Newport. The other faction, quite as large and quite as outspoken, insists that Mrs. Oelrichs might easily have found a less odious way of relieving her financial difficulties—one that would be less jarring to the sensibilities of her former husband's family.

The faction that frowns solely on the beautiful young actress' daring pursuit of prosaic dollars on Bellevue avenue is made up of the still married to the richest husband wives, while practically all the women, led by Mrs. May Brady Harriman, who are backing Mrs. Oelrichs with their friendship are those who have at least one divorce to their credit.

Every one, of course, who is implicitly loyal to the family of the Oelrichs, hopes to see some day, know the Oelrichs family and what it has done for the world.

Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas No. 2, Who Does Approve of Mrs. Oelrichs' Enterprise and Is Giving It Her Hearty Support.

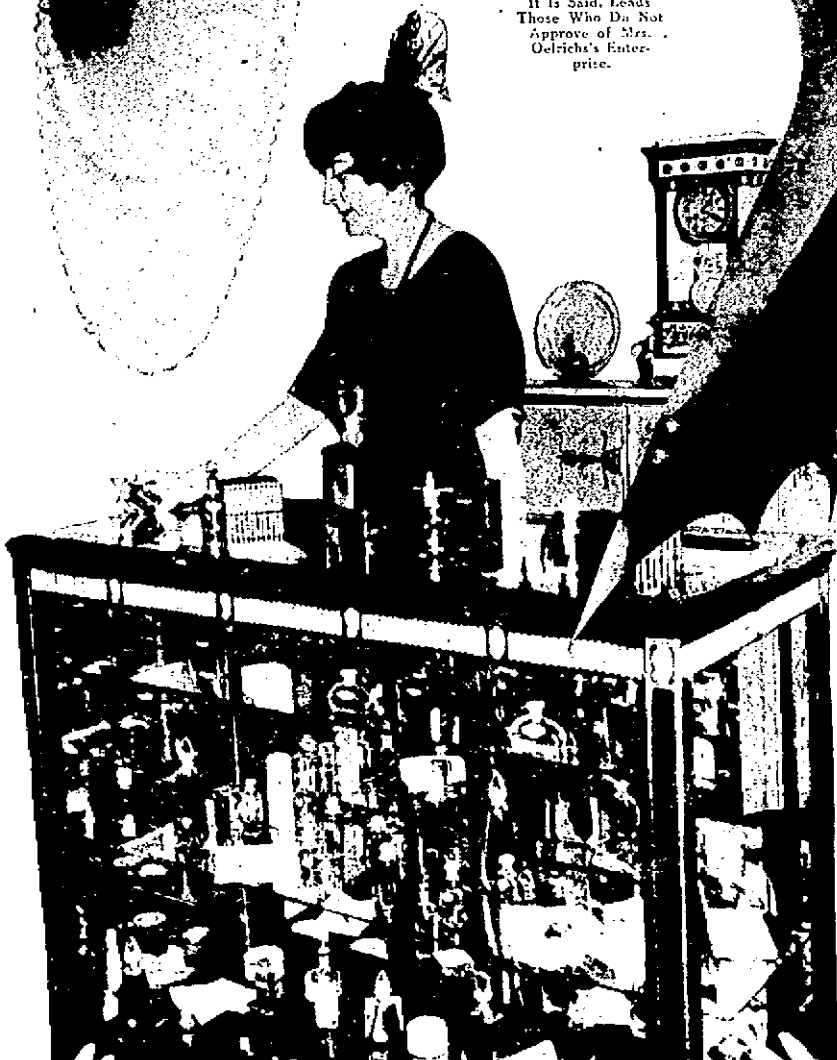

were equally prominent, although not blessed with the wealth that gave Mrs. Oelrichs such power. Mrs. Charles May Oelrichs, mother of the man whom Miss Turnbull married, belonged to the more conservative social element in New York and Newport. She had, however, married her older daughter, Lily, to Peter Martin of San Francisco, one of the richest men by inheritance on the Pacific coast.

Her other daughter, Blanche, a great beauty, was being trained to make her debut and a rich marriage. And there were two sons, both considered likely desirable catches by reason of their social position in spite of their lack of wealth. Newport at the time actually belonged to the Oelrichs family.

By her marriage to the older son, Marjory, Mrs. Oelrichs was considered to be doing her duty. If a people's respect for the name of the Newport society, and the exclusive of New York. But Mrs. Oelrichs, having been drawn into the divorce, she was left with a great deal of money and a great deal of influence.

During these years, too, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs withdrew from Newport and her powerful backing was a great loss. The Len Thomas family grew apart and Blanche gave up her social life to a great extent. Peter Martin died and Lily, his wife, refused to spend her summers in Newport.

Mrs. Oelrichs, therefore, found herself in a hard battle. No longer in line with her husband's family, she found herself in a position of social isolation. She was left with a great deal of money and a great deal of influence.

a divorce, but they knew nothing of her business addition until the day she opened her perfume shop just off New York's Fifth avenue. It was more than a shock—it was frightfully annoying. The Oelrichs women had frequently considered divorce, of course, but not one of them had ever gone so far as to actually do it.

Three months later Mrs. Oelrichs went to Paris to live with her husband and when she returned she had her divorce in her hand. She was left with a great deal of money and a great deal of influence.

On the other hand, returning from Paris was Mrs. Oelrichs' business. She was left with a great deal of money and a great deal of influence. She was left with a great deal of money and a great deal of influence.

would Mrs. Thomas was on the most intimate terms with her husband's former wife's former husband. Nothing could have more amazed society, for the two young women, now such devoted friends, had never before been friendly.

Was this Mrs. Oelrichs' little revenge on her in-law? Can it be that she was I that if they intended to cut her she would become as intimate as possible with the second Mrs. Thomas? Both young women, by the way, are very pleasant to look at. Both are blonde, but Mrs. Oelrichs has brown eyes and Mrs. Thomas No. 2 has blue.

If Newport society is to be believed Mrs. Thomas No. 2 and her husband—were only too happy to take a hint at Mrs. Oelrichs' former in-law. At any rate, it was Mrs. Thomas No. 2 who succeeded in the opening of the Newport shop.

Mrs. Charles de Loosy Oelrichs, the Beautiful, Fashionable Society Leader Whose Venture Into Business and Out of Marriage Has So Interested Newport.

take special orders and to see that everything runs smoothly.

When the news came out everybody wondered what would happen. Would Newport pass by on the other side? Or would it play the good philanthropist and do its perfume buying in the attractive little shop? Naturally, the newcomers, tourists and such, dropped in, for there was something thrilling in giving orders to the young beauty who had once queened it in the smart colony.

But what of the others?

This was soon settled. Mrs. Harriman, divorced last Spring from Herbert Harriman; Mrs. Williams F. Hurden, divorced from Gordon Douglas and married to Mr. Hurden a year ago; Mrs. Gustavus White, twice divorced; Mrs. Donald McKee, divorced two years ago from Samuel Wagstaff, and, last of all, Mrs. Paul Fitz Simon, the former Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, practically formed themselves into a committee to encourage Mrs. Oelrichs.

Was there ever a more intriguing situation? Here were five of the most important figures in Newport society standing solidly back of the fair and plucky Mrs. Oelrichs.

Why have these women gone against tradition to espouse Mrs. Oelrichs' cause? The best answer is that they believe that the tremendous change which has come over economic and domestic conditions must be accepted, even in the smart set. Deeper than this lies the sympathy these women feel for the difficulties facing a Newport woman who takes two such important steps as divorcing her husband and going into trade.

From actual experience none of the five knows anything about the business side of Mrs. Oelrichs' life, but they appreciate that many so-called women are going into trade in New York and see no good reason why Newport should have a "renegade" who over the shop on Bellevue avenue, they feel that the other women are arbiters in their attitude, and because of their inexperience unable to stally or morally to help her.

Every day or two there come enthusiastic letters from Mrs. Leonard Thomas, who, while not spending the Summer in Newport, considers herself a charter member of the group that is backing Mrs. Oelrichs. It gives her own advice to help along the cause that will among the present Mrs. Barrymore and her family.

The shop was opened on a very morning and Mrs. Oelrichs' first customers were not long in coming. Of course, it was a new woman to meet her, but she is always there to
